

Temple Pottery Incense Burner

Date
19th or 20th century

Primary Maker
Unidentified maker

Medium
Ceramic

Description
A temple pottery burner, consists of three parts: base, stand, and bowl, bowl is octagonal with two rows of lotus petals carved to exterior, interior has one small almost double gourd looking hole, stand has three section, top has ruyi head motifs, scalloped edge below, arched niches below that, then plain bands in sections, two column like with faint vertical liines, foot is octagonal in shape, metal fitting at top for bowl to secure to, base is plain, no decoration.

Dimensions
Overall (Stand): 24 x 10 1/4 in. (61 x 26 cm) Overall (Holder): 9 1/4 x 25 1/2 in. (23.5 x 64.8 cm) Overall (Base): 2 1/4 x 21 in. (5.7 x 53.3 cm)